Welcome to Techinfo

Web Related Software Solutions. We create software in Responsive design, custom PHP/MYSQL, WORDPRESS, CODIGNITER. We can help you navigate technical complexity to solve your problems and see your ideas evolve into working solutions. We've been here since May 2016, designing and rolling out custom enterprise and web-based solutions across the world. Technically, we are known for our web services, database, and architecting experience. We are experts in the technologies that drive sites like Snapdeal, Amazon, Flipcart. We have made software for Industries, Organization, school, college, medicine, water supply, Restaurant directly or Internet Marketing. Most of our work is done for the middle market, particularly entrepreneurs who want to create large software systems. Following this, we make custom software for large organizations, as well as do a lot of B2B and B2C solutions related to e-commerce. From a soft skills perspective, we are known for our communication, commitment to the customer, and our ability to creatively and accurately translate business needs into working software.

Services Overview

Computer systems design, development, and integration services account for about 35% of industry revenue; application design and development services, 25%; and technical support, 10%. IT services companies help clients use computer software, communications systems more efficiently. In addition to providing advice on using computer systems, they frequently recommend hardware and software systems to our customers. We provide a variety of associated services, including business function outsourcing, data warehousing, systems planning, enterprise resource planning, and training.

CRM Software

Customer Relationship Management (CRM) comes in two categories free, but limited (also known as freemium), and open source. So the free, but limited, versions set caps on the amount of free users, contacts, storage, extra features, or some combination thereof. Open source, on the other hand, offers an unlimited, fully functional CRM to users. The caveat is that

ERP Solution

Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) projects facilitate massive change in organizations that can include changing of day to day job descriptions or eliminating job descriptions in total. [These] changes impact the culture of your company and without careful control and communication plans and workshops you can create an adverse reaction to ERP resulting in barriers to implementation

Partnership

Outsourcing: This model is especially attractive for companies operating in the field of information technologies or adjacent industries. One of the primary reasons for considering outsourcing partnership is when a development project you received from a customer is outside your company's core competence or budget limits. In this case we are ready to offer

Sales Analysis and Pricing

Sales analysis examines sales reports to see what goods and services have and have not sold well. The analysis is used to determine how to stock inventory, how to measure the effectiveness of a sales force, how to set manufacturing capacity and to see how the company is performing against its goals. Any sales analysis needs to be shared with members of the company who can benefit
